All possible care taken to prevent accidents, but I will not be responsible for any.

RICHARD WARD.

3 miles from the Rigle on the Augusta road.

PEDIGREE.

HER-CLINE is a beautiful bay, full 15 hands and 3 inches high, and is a sure foal-getter; has run and won many races in this State, Virginia and Maryland. When he left the turf, he was regarded one of the best three-mile horses in the State, and two miles unequalled. At three years old, after winning the great stake at Baltimore, (See Turf Register), his owner was offered and refused five thousand dollars for him. His Colts are generally very promising.

Her-Cline was got by old Sir Archy, out of Georgiana. Archy was imported from England by Capt. Archy, of Rockingham; g. dam Tabitha, by T. H. Hunt; g. g. dam by Bosphorus; g. g. g. by Forester; g. g. g. g. dam, Coalition Colt; g. g. g. g. g. dam by Hastings; g. g. g. g. g. g. by Lord Leigh's Charming Molly by Second; g. g. g. g. g. g. dam Hanger's Brown Mare by Stangan's Arabian; g. g. g. g. g. g. g. dam Gipsy, by Kings William the Third's Black No-Tongued Barb; g. g. g. g. g. g. g. g. by Makeless; g. g. g. g. g. g. g. g. g. g. dam Royal Maid.

Georgiana was gotten by Col. Alston's Gallatin, (son of im. Horse Bedford) dam Calypso, imported horse Kowlesley; grand dam by Leipsie (son of the imported horse Obscurity); g. g. dam by Skipwith's Figure; g. g. dam by imported horse Bailer's Fearnaught out of a thoroughbred mare.

The Managers to meet at the Court House the third day, count the votes, and declare the election. Five Representatives to be elected.

Resolved, That the managers of election prior to their proceeding to the elections, do take the following oath or affirmations, before some magistrate or one of the managers of election, to wit: "That they will faithfully and impartially carry into execution the foregoing elections, agreeably to the Constitution of the State of S. Carolina."

Resolved, That in future, no person qualified to vote for members of each branch of the Legislature, shall be permitted to vote in more than one election district or parish, and the managers of election, throughout this State are hereby required and directed, if they think proper, or on the application of any elector, present, to administer to any person or persons offering to vote the following oath, I. A. B. do solemnly swear, or affirm, (as the case may be) that I have not at this general election for members of the Legislature voted in this or any other district or parish, and that I am constitutionally qualified to vote to help me God. And if any person or persons required as aforesaid to take said oath or affirmation, shall refuse to do so, then the managers respectively, in their respective election districts and parishes shall be and they are hereby required and enjoined to refuse such vote or votes, and in case the managers shall refuse to require the oath as aforesaid when demanded, they shall be liable to the pains and penalties they would be liable and subject to for neglecting any other duties required of them as managers of elections for either branch of the Legislature.

Resolved, That the Act altering the 4th section of the Constitution of the State of South Carolina, be herewith published, to wit: Every free white male citizen of the State of South Carolina, (excepting non-commissioned officers and privates of the army of the United States, (excepted) being a citizen of this State, and having resided therein two years previous to the day of election, and who has a free hold of fifty acres of land or a town lot, of which he has been legally seized and possessed at least six months before such election; or not having any such freehold or town lot, but, being a resident in the election district, in which he offers to give his vote, before the election six months, he shall have a right to vote for a member or members to serve in either branch of the Legislature for the election district in which he holds such property or residence.

Resolved, That the two years residence required by the Constitution in a voter are the two years immediately previous to the election; but if any person has his home in the State, he does not lose the right of residence by temporary absence with the intention of returning; and if he has his home in the election district, his right to vote is not impaired by a temporary absence with the intention of returning, but if one has his home and family in another State, the presence of such person, although confined for two years in the State, gives no right to vote.

Resolved, That the aforesaid managers do administer the said elections, together with these resolutions, in three or more public places within their respective districts and parishes, and every place of election.

Resolved, That the House do agree to the Report. Ordered to the Senate for concurrence. By order of the House.

SONG.

AUTUMN gale! sweet autumn gale!
Sing with me a sober wail;
Summer loves the melting song;
Lighthearted airs to Spring belong;
Old December shouts with glee,
O'er wassail cap and revelry;
Then I note not; thee I call
To my sober festival.

Haste with sighs to woo the rose,
Blooming not till summer's close;
Seek her bower, but O! beware
Not to romp or frolic there!
Lest she lose her silken dress,
And her blushing loveliness,
Suck her fragrant breath, and bring
Odours on thy fluttering wing.

Idle breeze!—that plaintive sigh
Tells me thou art lingering nigh.
Where the fruit hangs golden now,
Roughly blow, and bend the bough.
Or, to please my wayward will,
Shake the branch—its easier still—
And drop the fruit that's ripe and sweet.
On the green grass at my feet.

Autumn gale!—away, away!
We will seek you ruin gray,
Where old Time hath hung his pall
O'er roofless aisle and ivied wall
Ceasing now the wail you love
O'er fading flower and leafless grove.
Lift that dusky pall, and show
The dim forgotten tales below.
Fancy lingers thereabout,
To help your pleasant story out.

Night is coming; fit away,
Till the dawn of cheerful day;
Braid your loose hair round your brow
With scarlet poppies, drooping low,
That the dewy flowers may weep
O'er your eyelids as you sleep.
Fold your wing and hang your head,
And wait till dawn be bright and red.

What, returning! restless breeze!
Not so near, say, if you please.
Hence! away! thou speckled foe!
All too like some friend I know;
Boon companions, warm and gay,
While the golden sunbeams stay;
Rude, and bitter cold, like thee,
In darkness and adversity.

Miscellaneous.

THE POWERS OF MEMORY AND TOUCH.—Last Monday night, a truly singular display of natural capabilities took place at the Argyle Rooms in Regent street. "The Rabbi Hersh Danenmark, a professor of Hebrew and rabbinical literature, from Statten in Poland, appeared on a small platform before an auditory, apparently very familiar with the Hebrew language and literature. He was accompanied by professor Breslan as interpreter, who stated the rabbi's wish to recite any portion of the Talmud which might be demanded by anyone amongst his auditory, who would merely state the number of the page and line at which he wished him to commence.

He declares himself to be 21 years old but looks 28 or 30. He wore a silk pelisse, which reached to his feet; fastened round his waist by a gold wrought girdle. He replied to the questions put by members of his auditory in a loud confident voice, often stopping to command silence amongst his noisy audience, and continuing to elude his question, with a rapidity which his rival professors, who undertook the task of rendering, seemed scarcely able to keep delivery more resembled the continuous out pouring of waters which had burst their bounds than any thing we ever heard.

It would be endless to detail the queries and replies that occurred during the examination of an hour and a half, and which fully satisfied all present that he had the seven volumes folio of the Talmud (notes, text, and commentary,) by heart, not merely consecutively, but in any order; that he knew the contents of every line, taken numerically on every page, and in short, knew the place of every word, in every line, in every one of its seven thousand pages. The proof was that he permitted any body to stick a pin through any number of leaves, and then freely and unerringly told the word punctured on any given page!

The books used in this explanation were seven volumes of the Talmud, of the Berlin and Frankfurt edition, supplied by an individual present desirous of testing his powers; but the rabbi declared his willingness to answer questions according to any edition that any body might present to him. He professes to know thus by rote the Mishva also—in short, 8,000 pages of Hebrew, which he can repeat in any quantity, and commencing in any place that any body pleases.

But perhaps a more singular capability than even this extraordinary power of memory, was developed in a subsequent illustration of the rabbi's powers. He requested any person merely to insert his fingers into one of the thick volumes of the Talmud, and several times astonished his assailants by informing them what words were touched by their fingers in the blind and random sortes Talmudicæ.

The writer of this notice made one amongst these essayists, and observed that the rabbi also inserted his fingers, and left carefully though quickly, the marginal commentaries adjacent to the edge of the leaf, & then boldly pronounced the number of the page on the passage thus hit upon! No senses but that of touch (that we are aware of) could have possibly aided in his divination of these still unopened pages! Several of the spectators (who certainly did not look beneath the surface,) exclaimed in astonishment of his surprising powers of sight, in being able to count the leaves in a mass, off hand by their edges. We however feel tolerably certain that the exercise of very susceptible powers of feeling was the modulus operandi in this particular. We should have been happy to bear testimony to the correctness of the Rabbi's powers of divining these oracular passages, but not being versed in Hebrew literature (and equally ignorant of Chaldee, Persian, Arabic, Russ, and Polish, the only tongues which the rabbi spoke,) we were obliged to rest content with the satisfaction displayed by the erudite individuals who had taken an active part in the examination of the Rabbi—amongst whom were professor Breslan and Sampson, Mr. Lew, reader to the Western Synagogue and Mr. Lindenthal, Secretary to the new Synagogue.

The audience was by no means so numerous as might be expected from the nature of the announcement, which, in addition to the wonders of memory, led the public to expect some astonishing exhibitions of the powers of sight. This latter display was, however, confined to the rapid inspection and estimate of the number of lines in any printed page presented to his view. The operation he certainly accomplished in a quick and surprising manner, guessing off hand, in perhaps half the time that even very ready reckoners could, to within one line in fifty or sixty; but this performance, clever as it was, scarcely deserved to be mentioned in connection with the almost miraculous retention and precision of memory evinced by his repetition of the Talmud.

At Warsaw, it appears, he exhibited one of his extraordinary efforts of memory.—The number of more than 200 soldiers was called over, when he immediately repeated it forward and backward, without an error.—London paper.

The End of the World.—Two or three weeks ago, a gentleman, who had been predicting the end of the world sometime between 1840 and 1850. To all such prophecies we have hitherto been incredulous, but are free to confess that facts like the following, which we cut from the Boston Times, are strongly corroborative of the truth of these predictions. When tailors and printers who work on trust, begin to be paid, the symptoms is indeed alarming!

A gentleman now residing in this city, who formerly published a paper in Connecticut, has recently received a letter from an old delinquent subscriber, forking over the money due, and expressing the utmost remorse of conscience for having so long deprived him of his just dues. What a blot will be wiped out from the fair face of creation, when men shall understand distinctly that cheating a poor printer is an unpardonable sin.—N. Y. Sun.

Greatness of Mind.—A Corsican, the leader of a gang of banditti, who had long been famous for his exploits, was at length taken and committed to the care of a soldier, from whom he contrived to escape.—The soldier was tried and condemned to death. At the place of execution, a man, coming up to the commanding officer, said, "Sir, I am a stranger to you, but you shall soon know who I am; I have heard that one of your soldiers is to die for having suffered a prisoner to escape; he was not at all to blame; besides the prisoner shall be restored to you. Behold him here—I am the man. I cannot bear that an innocent man should be punished for me, and I came to die myself." "No!" cried the French officer, who felt as he caught the sublimity of the action. "Thou shalt not die, and the soldier shall be set at liberty. Endeavor to reap the fruits of thy generosity; thou deservest to be henceforth an honest man."

A Second Ark.—on Wheels.—The Boston Times says that a gentleman in Dorchester, (Mass) named Fossenden, is constructing a vehicle for the purpose of removing his family (nine in number) to the West on rather a novel plan. It is to be 17 feet in length, 10 feet high, and about 6 feet in width, and constructed so as to contain accommodations for cooking, sleeping, and washing; and after their arrival at Illinois, can be used as a house until one of better proportions can be constructed. This peculiarity is a Yankee notion.

Disadvantages of a long Nose.—One David Jenks, of Russellville, (Ky.) lately received a rifle ball through his nose by the hands of a neighbor of his, who meant to have sent it through his skull. Jenks happening to turn his head at the moment the shot made a clean hole through the fleshy portion of that prominent organ. The offender's name is Davidson, and he is now in Logan jail.

Tarring and Feathering.—The use of the tar and feathers in the punishment of crimes is one of great antiquity. Richard I. in his voyage to the Holy Land, ordered thus: "If any one is convicted of theft, let his head be shaved, like Champion's; let melted pitch be poured upon it, and feathers shaken over it, that he may be known; and let him be set on shore at the first land to which the ship approaches."

he wished to go to Vincennes, the Indian immediately left his hunting, took his rifle and a small stock of provisions, and conducted him in safety to that settlement, a distance from his cabin of about eighty miles.

Having arrived here, and wishing to reward well the generous Indian to whom he owed his life, Mr. R. made arrangements with a merchant of the settlement, to whom he made himself known to give him three hundred dollars. But the Indian would not receive a farthing. When made to understand by Mr. R., through an interpreter, that he could not be happy unless he would accept something, he replied, pointing to a new blanket near him, that he would take that; and added, wrapping his own blanket around his shoulders, "when I wrap myself in it I will think of you."

Where was there ever a white man, that even in a time of peace, would have so benefited an Indian?

*Uncle of the present Hon. John Rowan, of Louisville.

WORTHY OF TRIAL.—From the Baltimore Patriot we copy the annexed article relative to the Peach Tree.

This valuable fruit has for a considerable number of years past fallen a sacrifice to a destructive insect that preys upon it near the root, which is discoverable by a gummy substance, issuing from the trunk. Many receipts have been published to prevent and destroy this ruinous insect, but they have not had the beneficial effect that could be desired. The writer of this has a favorite tree in his yard, which has for some years been infested with these insects, and which he has taken great pains to remove by the application of ashes, lime, tar, &c., all of which have failed to answer the intended purpose. In the course of the late spring, when the leaves came out, they soon changed to a pale color, and to all appearances the tree was going to die. As the last resort for its restoration he had recourse to charcoal, and a small box was placed around the roots of the tree and filled with that article. It so far succeeded that in a short time the tree revived, and took a second growth, and is now in a luxuriant state, the leaves of a dark green color, equal almost to any thing of the kind, and much surpasses all who had previously seen it.

To all such prophecies we have hitherto been incredulous, but are free to confess that facts like the following, which we cut from the Boston Times, are strongly corroborative of the truth of these predictions.
